KARMA TRIYANA DHARMACHAKRA (KTD) is a Tibetan Buddhist monastery beautifully situated above Woodstock, New York. It is the North American monastic seat of His Holiness the Gyalwa Karmapa Ogyen Trinley Dorje, the spiritual head of the Karma Kagyu Lineage of Tibetan Buddhism.

KTD is a retreat center where students study and practice Tibetan Buddhism as taught by its distinguished resident lamas, Khenpo Karthar Rinpoche, and Khenpo Ugyen Tenzin as well as many visiting Kagyu teachers.

The monastery offers two tours each week for visitors from around the world. Programs are held on most weekends year round, and are open to whoever is interested in discovering more about the Buddha's teachings on wisdom and compassion. The teachings range from introductory presentations, including Tibetan language and music, to instruction in advanced Tibetan Buddhist (Vajrayana) practices.

The shrine building was built by lamas, staff, volunteers, and painted by a Tibetan artist-in-residence and decorated in the style and architecture of an authentic Tibetan monastery. It was completed in 1992. On the grounds are a temporary staff residence which houses a gift store, kitchen, dining room and rooms for staff and students who attend teachings and practices held at the monastery. The grounds are decorated with Tibetan prayer flags draped up the mountain, a "Dharma Path" with benches and prayer flags that lead to a parking lot and a large goldfish pond stocked by His Holiness the 16th Karmapa.
